Hello,

Please share this information with other faculty and students in your department. I will be on campus at the annual career fair on February 23 from 3 PM to 7 PM recruiting students and graduating seniors to help us with our environmental campaigns. The career fair will be located in the Kimmel Center for University Life. All of our positions are paid.

This is a unique and excellent learning employment opportunity. All of our employees will become well versed in a wide variety of environmental issues and will be trained to perform a wide range of daily job functions. All new staff will work alongside our full-time campaign staff and organizers. Social science majors will particularly enjoy learning about urban environmental justice work and the human costs of environmental policy decisions. In addition, even if students do not end up following a non-profit career track, many of the basic communications skills they learn working with us will be transferable to a variety of career interests.

We are looking for candidates with excellent communication skills and a passion for environmental issues. For additional information, I have a job and internship posting at the school's online career page, and I would love to meet interested candidates (and professors with questions) at the upcoming fair. Our career fair presence is informational, so casual dress is fine for busy students. Thank you in advance for taking the time to share this information.
